THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service HARRISBURG, July 11—The selection of Gov. Edward Martin as Chairman of the annual Governor's Conference came as no surprise to many Capitol Hill leaders. . . .
Governor Martin has played a prominent part in meetings at Columbus, Ohio, Hershey, Pa., and Mackinac Island, Mich. . . . Pennsylvania's chief executive was chosen chairman of the 1946 conference succeeding Gov. Herbert B. Maw, of Utah, a Democrat. . . .
The chairmanship of the organization rotates annually among the political parties. . . . Speculation has arisen on Capitol Hill as to the site of next year's meeting. . . .
Hershey has been mentioned as a likely choice.

One of the most attractive but little heard of chambers in the State Capitol is the Appellate Court Room located on the fourth floor of the main building. . . . Sixteen superb panels by Violet Oakley, world renowned artist, portraying the evolution of law through the ages adorn the walls. . . . A large class dome is located on the roof.
In addition to the Appellate Court, the Supreme Court and the State Pardons Board meet in the room. . . . Both Courts convene at the State Capitol once a year while the four-member Pardons Board holds monthly meetings except during the summer months.

The State Game Commission has announced the completion of plans for a long-range wildlife conservation program which will be inaugurated after the war. . . . An editorial in the Pennsylvania Game News, the Commission's official organ, reported "plans unheard of 10 or 15 years ago have now been completed and are ready to become operative." . . . The preservation program will be supervised by recently appointed committees on research and planning, propagation and predator control.

no damage was done. "Our crops had been watered throughout the day, and it merely meant that we had too much moisture in some sections, but no harm was caused." The temperature dropped here from four to six o'clock was 21 degrees, the mercury going from 88 to 67

NO TAKERS FOR U. S. THIRD FLEET'S OFFER TO 'ALL-COMERS,' PLANES FROM CARRIERS BLAST 154 'JAP' AIRCRAFT

Task Force Moves To Within Easy Distance of Land-Based Planes

AN OPEN CHALLENGE

'Nip' Ships Refuse To Come Out from Area of The Enemy Capital

By Gerard R. Himmelsbach
I. N. S. Pacific Cable Editor
The U. S. Third Pacific Fleet's offer to "take on all comers" apparently had no takers today, but carrier planes of the task force striking at Tokyo nevertheless were credited with blasting at least 154 Japanese aircraft.

When task force moved to within easy striking distance of enemy land-based planes, it was an open challenge to the Nips to come out and fight. But Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz indicated that the Japs put up no fighters in the early stages of the massive assault on Tokyo airdromes and military targets in the area.
Nimitz' communique, dealing with the first few hours of the carrier raid against the enemy capital, revealed that 74 planes were definitely destroyed and 80 others damaged. All but two of these were apparently caught on the ground, and the pair shot down were aircraft seeking to carry out reconnaissance of the surface force which launched the American fighters and bombers.

That the total of enemy planes destroyed in the strike, which was directed against 70 to 80 targets, may be increased was indicated by Nimitz' statement that reports were only "preliminary." The fleet admiral said also that none of the surface units was attacked.
"Complete tactical surprise" was achieved by the blow which got underway at dawn Tuesday (Japanese time).

The raid was pressed home by more than 1,000 carrier-based planes, practically all of which were understood to have flown at least two sorties in the first day.
This would mean that well over 2,000 individual sorties hit the enemy capital area on Tuesday, in addition to the 559 Superforts which ravaged five industrial cities of Japan.

Nimitz revealed also that planes of Fleet Airwings 1 and 18 sank three Jap surface vessels and damaged five others in waters off Southern Korea and Central Honshu on Monday.
An open admission that new invasions are in the making came from Nimitz's headquarters. He announced that seizure of the Marianas, Iwo and Okinawa "permitted the redeployment of strong U. S. airforces within effective striking distance of Japan."

This "redeployment" already was under way, Nimitz added, saying that all army air forces in the Ryukyus now are under the operational control of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, while the naval airforces in the Ryukyus and at Iwo remain centered with the Pacific Fleet.

Shifting of the army airforces to MacArthur's command make for "greater operational efficiency," Nimitz said. He declared also that the naval airmen will be entrusted with tightening the blockade of Japan, and destroying enemy forces and shipping "wherever found."

This, Nimitz said pointedly, will be "preparatory to further amphibious assaults."

Firemen Fight Blaze In Their Own Station

QUAKERTOWN, July 11—When the volunteers of West End Fire Company, No. 2, of this place, were called out Sunday morning, they were assigned to an unusual task of extinguishing a fire that destroyed a portion of their own fire house.

With the assistance of Quaker-town Fire Company, No. 1, the fire fighting equipment of the West End company was saved, but the meeting place of the firemen and the ladies' auxiliary is in ruins today.

The fire started in a barn used as a garage, in the rear and adjacent to the fire house. The flames quickly spread to the shingle roof of the West End Fire Company building and had been turned in.

The loss, according to County Fire Marshal Strunk, will amount to approximately $5,000. The barn that was completely destroyed, was owned by Thomas Osman.

AS THE RESULT OF A TWO-HOUR CLOUDBURST, four persons died in the collapse of this build-page, caused great damage in Pennsylvania and New Jersey alike. Bridges, power lines and trees were

UNEASY LABOR

Union labor was led to the top of the mountain by the New Deal under Roosevelt.

Now the question is whether it is to be kicked over the edge of the cliff by the Truman administration.

There are many reasons to suspect that union members are dismayed at finding themselves caught in the economic straight-jacket slipped on America by the New Deal, supposedly to punish "capital."

The catch, which most everyone but some labor leaders saw long ago, is that the workingman is "labor" while earning his wages, but is a "capitalist" when it comes to spending them.

Ceilings on earnings, the "tax the rich" programs, the "share the wealth" fantasies, all punish him harder, in the long run, than any other group because the working people of this nation own a larger share of the nation's property, investments, savings, insurance and War Bonds than anyone else.

The question which has sent labor bosses scurrying to texts on economics for the answer is why, with wages higher than ever before, the working man's family finds itself no better off.

The answer is not so difficult. A complete reply lies along two different lines. In the first place, the higher pay is simply one phase of a general rise which we call inflation. Everything else involving money has risen in accordance, all swollen out of proportion by the inflationary effect of topheavy national debts.

Translate present wage levels to the terms of the old 100-cent dollar, and weigh them off against higher prices, and you will find that in actual buying power most labor now is receiving less, not more.

Running the answer out in another direction, there are three ways in which labor is being robbed by the New Deal of the advantages of higher earnings: first, planned

Iwo-Based Mustangs Have Field Day

Seventh Fighter Command, Iwo Jima—Iwo-based Mustangs had a field day in their sixth strike in a week against the Japanese empire, an assault which today was revealed to have netted 19 enemy planes destroyed and 25 small ships sunk or damaged.

The P-51s of the Seventh Fighter Command poured rocket and ma-on Honshu.

The American fighters were unopposed in the air, the only Jap plane being encountered an old-type dive bomber which was shot down. The

TEACHER SHORTAGE AGAIN FACES THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

48 Vacancies Remain Unfilled in the County,
It is Stated

10 IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Turnover of New Teachers in 1945 Will Not Reach Record of 1942

A teacher shortage in the Bucks County Schools threatens for the third successive year as 58 vacancies remain unfilled. The county public schools office is assisting in the placing of teachers for 40 vacancies, according to Paul L. Grub-ber, assistant superintendent.

Some of the vacancies will be very difficult to fill because there are no new applicants and the former teachers in some areas of the county have all been employed.
Last year, at the last minute, two high school graduates were employed together with 55 other persons who were not certified to teach to keep the schools open.

Among these vacancies are only 10 rural schools, which is an unusually low number for that group.
Most of the vacancies are in consolidated and borough elementary schools.

The turnover of new teachers in 1945 will not reach the all-time high record of 1942 when over 200 changes in personnel occurred.
However, more than 25 new

Bristol Army Nurse Aided In Big Army Hospital In England

THE 131ST GENERAL HOSPITAL, Blandford Camp, Dorset, and, July 11—After treating soldier-patients with only deaths, this huge United States Army general hospital has let its mission in England, among those who helped operate hospital is First Lieutenant Elizabeth Downing, of 534 street, Bristol, Pa., an Army nurse.

Of five general hospitals, this is the Army's largest hospital group at Blandford Camp, the general had one of the lowest mortality rates in the entire Medical Department.

The hospital unit arrived at Blandford Camp, England, late in July, after a six-month training period at Camp McCain, Mississippi. Last patients left the hospital on July 8, 1945.

Her busiest period was during the German breakthrough in December when practically all of the beds were constantly filled. Lieutenant Colonel John C. Smith, of St. Paul, Minnesota, was the hospital's commander.

Downing is a daughter of Sam E. Downing of the Bath address. She was a nurse at the Hill Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa., before entering the Army in April, 1943.

American Steel To Oppose Voltz-Texaco in Industrial League Contest

HAS GOOD AVERAGE

Only Three Hurlers Have Been Able To Defeat Trenton Nine

It is most likely that "Eddie" Sullivan will be picked to hurl this evening as the Voltz-Texaco nine plays the league-leading American Steel team on Leedom's field in a Trenton Industrial League contest, starting at 6.15 o'clock.

Sullivan has a good average in the Trenton circuit and may be able to give the gasmen a triumph over the Steelers. Only three hurlers in the Trenton Industrial League have handed defeats to the Steelers. They were Lon Heisler and Norman Pietras, of Roebeling, and Howard Minnick, of J. A. Roebeling.

All games in this vicinity, scheduled for last evening, were rained out by the storm.

SPORTSMEN HEAR CONSERVATIONIST

J. Allen Barrett, well-known lecturer, editor and conservationist, was the guest speaker at the July meeting of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association last evening when he told members of the work and policies of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

Following his talk, which clearly indicated that Pennsylvania leads the nation in its program of producing fish for its anglers, Barrett showed several reels of moving pictures.

The meeting, held at the Odd Fellows' Hall, was attended by 132 members of the Association. Howard Asay presided in the absence of chairman Frank B. Murphy.

"Nothing contributes more," Barrett declared, "nor serves to better invoke that sort of education and interest than the direct contact, the resourcefulness, self-reliance, the character building environment, the patience, the hope and the fun and experience gained and loved by a boy 'out fishin'."

"It has been said and wisely so that the greatest legacy a man can leave to the world is a well educated family.

"Sportsmen's groups would do well and accomplish much if they too displayed a more pronounced interest in our boys and girls, and it gives me a great amount of pleasure and satisfaction to see the wonderful attendance of young fellows at your meeting here tonight.

"And if there be any solution to the many perplexing problems of conservation, I say, we need to take our boys and girls along out fishing. They are entitled to share and enjoy this birthright, their own heritage, the natural resources of our great outdoors.

"Take them along, out there in the same environment where a courageous and determined ancestry fought and cradled this great nation of free men.

"Make your child, your boy or your neighbor's boy an everlasting integral part of it.

"Take time to point out and instruct them in the many phases of woodcraftmanship, the countless essentials so important to the conservation of our forests, the trees, the streams, animals, birds, our fish, the flowers and plants. Set the proper example and you will produce a conservationist.

"A rising generation of understanding, clean, honest citizens imbued with the will to preserve. I know of no other medium or environment wherein can be created and molded real red-blooded Americanism as compares with the noble and rather sacred laboratory of our own outdoors."

At a general campfire on Sunday evening, the members of the staff were introduced and plans for the week discussed. The storm, which caused damage on the upper reaches of the Delaware on Monday evening, did not hit Ockanickon. Troop campfires in the troop camps were very successfully carried out on Monday evening.

The Board of Review on Saturday afternoon, under direction of the Middle Bucks District, with Dr. M. M. Hostetter, chairman, will review the scouts in the progress which they have made in advancement during their stay in camp. ## The Capitol Whirl

One of the specific phases of game conservation will be the "re-establishment of quail population." . . . A blueprint calls for (1) protected and improved habitat, (2) transfer of fowl from heavily to sparsely populated regions, (3) liberation of pen-reared stock. . . . Soil fertility will be taken into consideration in placing the birds in order to assure ample food.

Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livenood, Jr., points out in the Department's monthly bulletin that the miracle of modern medicine during World War II, was "the product of a free and independent medical system." . . . "There is a lesson for those who propose the regimentation of the medical profession to be found in religious study, for even the Christian Church had to be freed from the domination of and dependence on government before it came into full flower and fruition," he stated. . . . All of us look for the day when every American shall have whatever medical treatment he or she may need but that never will be brought about by making a parcel of bureaucratic controlled political payrollers of the medical practitioners of the country," Livenood added.

School Health Rules Adopted

line and co-ordinate the duties of medical examiners, dental examiners, and school authorities and regulate procedure for the physical examination of school children of school age, teachers, employees of public and private schools.

Provision is made for the following:

1. Arrangements for scheduling physical examinations.

2. For the filing of health service reports which include an estimate of the number of children scheduled for examinations, teachers and other employees; addresses of physicians, dentists, nurses, dental hygienists and other assistants who will be employed to carry out provisions of the Act.

3. In first, second and third class districts personnel will be appointed by the Board of School Directors and approved by the Secretary of Health.

4. In the fourth class districts, personnel will be appointed by the Secretary of Health. The Secretary of Health may approve the personnel already employed in districts and private schools that have already established a satisfactory health service. This approval is contingent upon the filing of a report of such health service.

5. Special provision is made for the examination of children who enter school, or teachers who may be employed after routine examinations have been completed. Those children who, due to transfer or for other reasons have missed the bi-annual examinations will be included in the special examinations.

6. Maintenance of permanent files for the health records, and the transfer of records from district to district with the transfer of pupils or teachers is also required.

7. A more careful procedure for the reporting and control of communicable disease is outlined.

8. Regulations requiring special laboratory examinations for cafeterias help who have a past history of having had a disease which may be transmissible to others by virtue of their being carried are also included.

9. Under the regulations for reimbursement to school districts of the first, second and third class who directly employ the medical personnel it is required that the allocation for reimbursement shall include not less than one dollar for medical examination, and not less than fifty cents for each dental examination.

HARRISBURG, July 11—(INS)—

The State Health Department notified Pennsylvania school officials today they must report compliance by September 1 with the new law governing medical examinations of pupils.

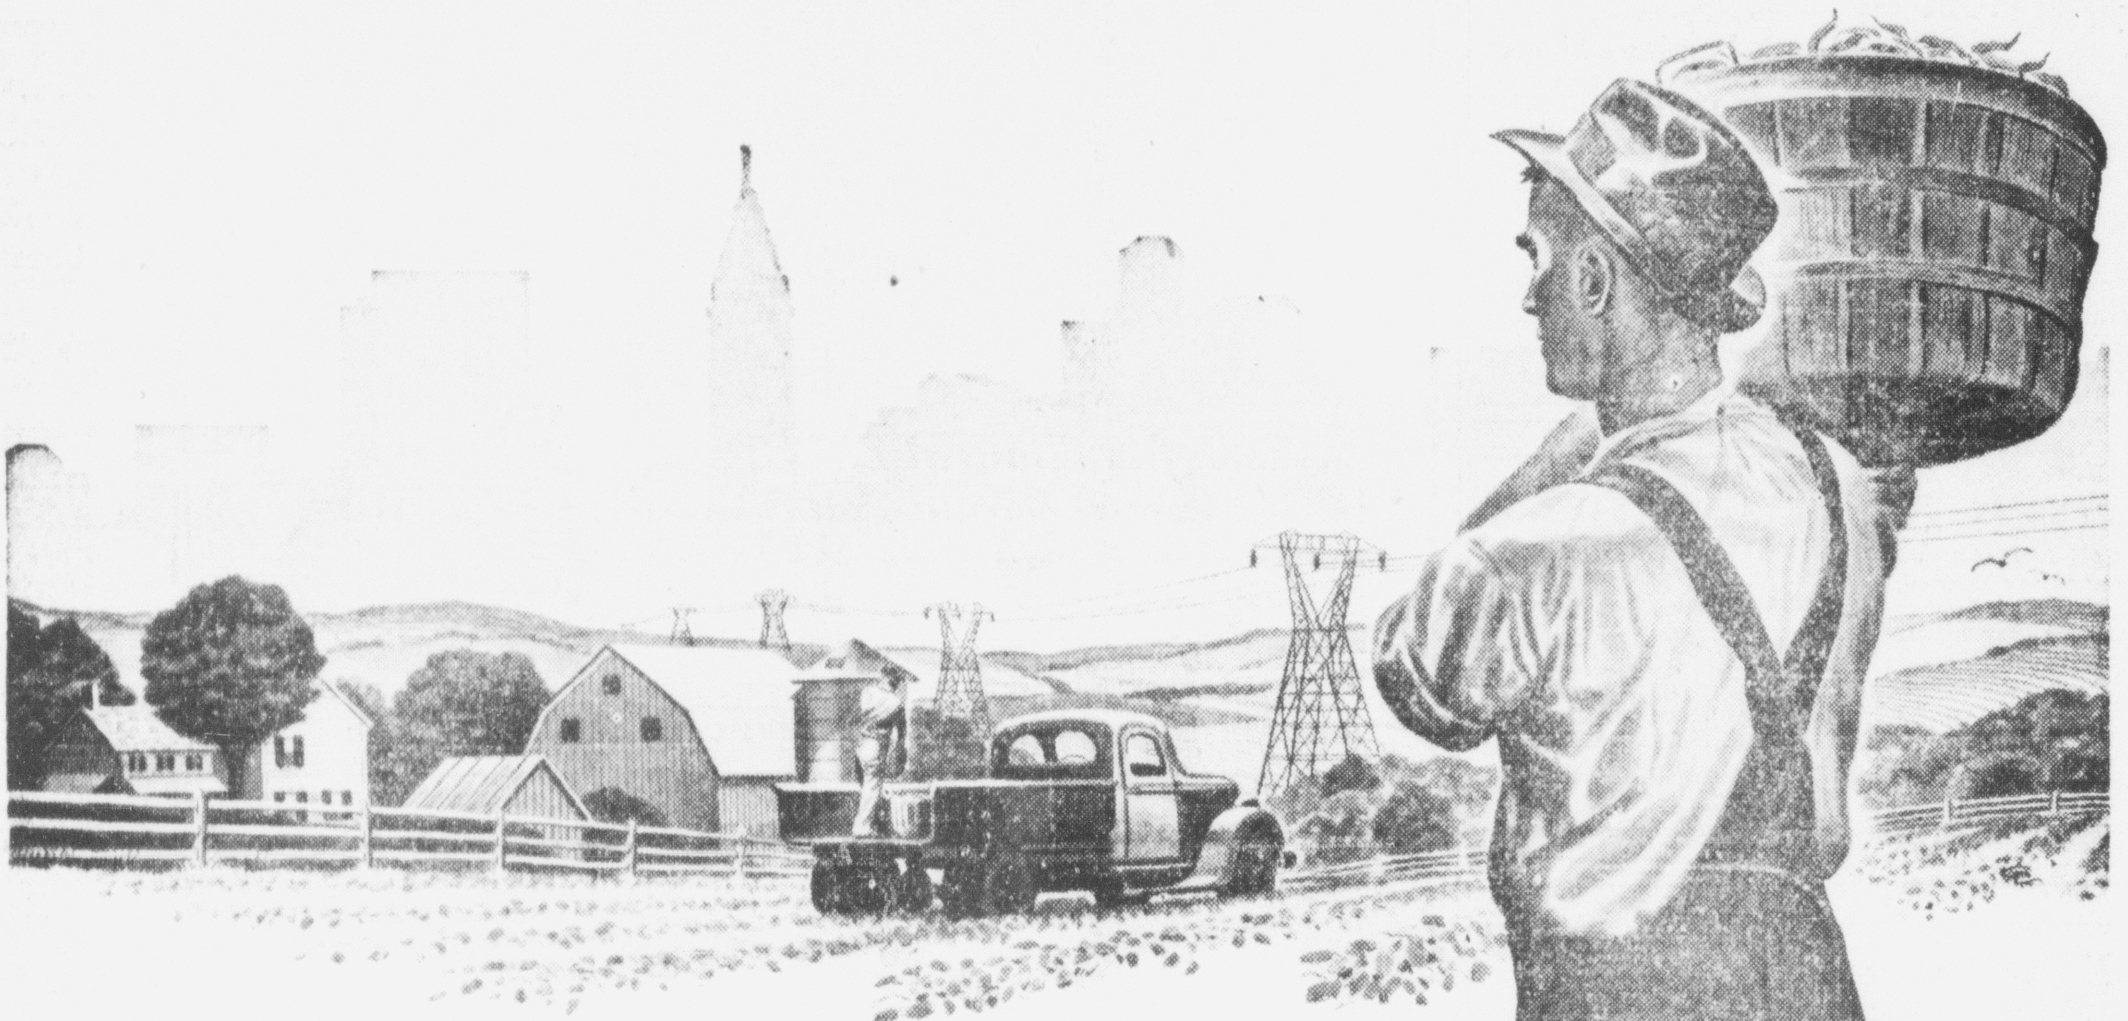

But Deputy Secretary J. Moore Campbell predicted that "many schools would not be able to undertake the program this year due to the shortage of physicians and nurses." Medical and dental examiners have not been appointed yet by Health Secretary A. H. Art, he added.

Campbell said regulations, ordered by the Department for conducting examinations and instruction conforming with the measure, were sent to the 252 county and district school superintendents.

Helping the Farmer FEED A TEEMING CITY

In the area served by Philadelphia Electric there are 14,000 farms, scattered throughout 1,750 square miles of rolling country.

War found P.E. busily extending electric lines to serve even the remote corners of this vast territory. Unfortunately, wartime restrictions made it necessary to postpone the few remaining extensions not yet completed . . . but now that these restrictions have been lifted our line-building program has been resumed

Your neighbors who operate P.E. know the farmer's need for dependable electric service. Likewise, we know the advantages to both farm and city folk in making electricity become an efficient helper in producing poultry, dairy products, vegetables, and all the other yield of the fertile soil of this 5-county area.

That's why P.E. maintains a staff of experts to work with farmers in finding the right equipment and the best way to use it for each job.

Depend upon us to continue day after day with research and experiment, not only to keep your electric service dependable and economical—but to lift it to even higher standards in the years ahead
